The most common include the abject cruelty of slavery and accompanying abuse, particularly sexual abuse. Many who responded to the survey are elementary school teachers, and they teach about slavery although they say that it is difficult. Perhaps a few miles. Sirs, in that great vault. A text claiming to reconstruct such an event by means of primary, immediate experience performs as testi- mony; a text drawing on other sources will perform as palimpsest or second- degree narrative.

That gap shows just how resistant students are to identifying slavery as the
